

PREPARING THE WAY FOR WILSON'S PLAN

President and His Cabinet Discuss His Message to Congress.

WILL INSIST ON MOST RIGID ECONOMY

Representative Bailey of Pennsylvania Suggests a Tax on Land Values Only, Placing Chief Burden on the Cities.

Washington, Nov. 24.—President Wilson and his cabinet Tuesday began the task of smoothing the way for the passage of the preparedness program through congress. A draft of the message to be read before the two houses Dec. 7 was submitted by the president and approved. Today the president will revise the message for the last time and send it to the printer. With the message out of the way and the annual reports disposed of the members of the cabinet will mobilize their forces for the preparedness legislation.

Must Solve Revenue Problem. Methods of raising revenue were also discussed at the cabinet session. A number of tentative suggestions were offered, but no conclusions were reached. The president in his message, it is understood, will not discuss this phase of the question in detail. His recommendations will be general and he will leave it to congress to solve the problem.

One thing the president has made plain is there are to be no "rewards" in appropriations this year. The most rigid economy consistent with the upkeep of the government is to be insisted upon.

Appropriations advantageous to local districts only, the president believes, must give way to larger appropriations intended for the general public good. It is reported that so convinced is the president of the soundness of the policy upon which he has entered that he will not hesitate to use his veto power to enforce his ideas.

Tax on Land Values Only. A suggestion for increased revenue advanced by Representative Bailey of Pennsylvania is a tax on land. He is preparing a bill which will impose a tax on land values only, all former preparations imposing a direct tax on general property values. Such a law, he argues, will place the chief burden on the cities, centers of population and not on the agricultural lands.

Representative Rainey of Illinois proposes an increase in the tax on beer. "The bartender would merely add a little more foam," said Mr. Rainey. "We would be better off. Drinkers would get less beer and the country would have more revenue."

Senator Gallinger and Representative Mann, minority leaders in the senate and house, have accepted the president's invitation to a conference on the preparedness program. Senator Gallinger has advised the president he will be in Washington Nov. 30 and will be glad to visit him any time after that date. Representative Mann has informed the president that any time after this week will be agreeable to him.

In this connection Mr. Mann has declared himself in favor of the creation of a tariff commission which should simply report facts to congress. This, he says, would take the tariff out of politics and enable congress to provide reveue through the tariff that would go a long way toward getting the general needs of the government and providing funds for preparedness.

THANKSGIVING PRESENT

MRS. HARRIET TAYLOR UPTON ASKS CONGRESSMEN TO VOTE FOR SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT.

Warren, O., Nov. 24.—Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, president of the Ohio Women Suffrage association, is sending a letter to each of the 22 congressmen to reach them on Thanksgiving day in which she asks them to vote for the federal amendment. Such an amendment, if submitted, would have to be ratified by the legislatures of 36 states before nation-wide suffrage for women would result.

"Congressmen Sherwood, Crosser, Pees, Matthews, Cooper and Emerson," Mrs. Upton says, "have all promised to vote for the Susan B. Anthony amendment in congress this winter. Six other Ohio congressmen are known to favor votes for women, and the remaining 11 are non-committal. It is significant that not one declares himself as really opposed, though some are frankly opposed to federal action. "Senator Harding says he will vote for the amendment when it is politically expedient, and Senator Pomeroy is unalterably opposed to federal action though strongly for suffrage in the state."

Crushed by Train. Ravenna, O., Nov. 24.—J. A. Skinner, 27, married, of Hudson, O., was crushed between the engine and caboose of a Cleveland & Pittsburgh train at Bayard, O., Tuesday. His left arm was amputated at the White hospital here.

Wife Escapes, Man Dies. Columbus, Nov. 24.—After vainly trying to induce his wife to drink the contents of a glass, Arthur Wilson, 40, drained the contents of a second glass and fell dead before his wife's eyes.

Distress in the Stomach. There are many people who have a distress in the stomach after meals. It is due to indigestion and easily remedied by taking one of Chamberlain's Tablets after meals. Mrs. Henry Padgham, Victor, N. Y., writes: "For some time I was troubled with headache and distress in my stomach after eating, also with constipation. About six months ago I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. They regulated the action of my bowels and the headache and other annoyances ceased in a short time." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

USSEL OF GALS ON TRIAL FOR CONSPIRACY

Capt. Boy-Ed Named as the Director and Supervisor of Scheme to Supply German Warships.

New York, Nov. 24.—Capt. Richard Boy-Ed, naval attaché of the German embassy, was named Tuesday as the director and supervisor of the scheme to build and supply German warships through the use of American citizens.

Activities of the men commonly known as the "German agents" in this country, including a matter of court record at the trial of the late "Hills of the Atlantic" merchant line.

Despite a thunderous storm of objections, Boy-Ed was pictured as principal adviser of the alleged plot to build German warships. A witness from the government frankly admitted as an innocent "dummy" in the transaction, that he had disbursed $750,000 at the direction of the attaché.

In the midst of this testimony William Mann, Jr., chief counsel for the defense, broke in with the sensational admission that the total amount used in the expedition was $2,000,000. Rand had previously admitted that the purpose of Dr. Karl Buehler and the other defendants in sending the ships out was to supply German ships of war.

"These admissions are an attempt to smother the real facts," sharply retorted Assistant United States Attorney Roger B. Wood. "We shall proceed, with the court's permission, to present our entire case."

Federal District Judge Howe ruled in favor of the government. The narrative of the allegations that Boy-Ed was privy to the conspiracy followed.

At the close of court rumors were rife that the naval attaché has requested permission to go upon the witness stand. An unconfirmed report was that Boy-Ed had wiredless the foreign office in Berlin for permission.

Gustave B. Kulenkampf of the former firm of Wessels, Kulenkampf & Co., exporters and importers, was the man who brought Boy-Ed's name into the proceedings. Mr. Kulenkampf is a social friend of Dr. Buehler and of Capt. Boy-Ed.

FILES SUIT FOR LIBEL

NEW YORK REALTY COMPANY ASKS $5000 FOR FALSE STATEMENTS.

Lima, O., Nov. 24.—The Montroy Realty Co. of New York Tuesday filed a suit for $25,000 damages against Thomas P. Riddle, director of the Ohio corn boys' tour, soon to start for Washington, and former secretary of the Lima chamber of commerce.

Riddle is charged in the petition with causing damaging statements against the company to appear in the Lima newspapers. The company alleges that its reputation as a sound and reliable business firm has been damaged.

PEACE PARTY APPEALS TO WOMEN OF COUNTRY

Are Asked to Urge the President to Call Conference of Neutral Nations to Endeavor to Secure Peace.

New York, Nov. 24.—Six thousand telegrams were sent to the most noted women in the country Tuesday by the Women's Peace party asking them to urge President Wilson to call a conference of neutral nations. The toll on these messages were paid for by Mrs. Henry Ford's gift of $10,000.

The dispatch of the telegrams was a remarkable tribute to the efficiency and organization of the women's party. Eighty messenger boys worked in relays between headquarters and the telegraph offices. All the messages were identical and each was signed by Jane Addams, head of the party. They read:

"For the sake of all the anxious mothers dreading that their sons may be added to the 10,000,000 men already killed or crippled in this war, will you strengthen the appeal to be made next Friday by Ethel Snowden of England and Rosika Schimmmer of Hungary to President Wilson by telegraphing him immediately at Washington as follows: 'We urge a conference of neutral nations dedicated to finding a just settlement of this war.'"

At the party's headquarters it was announced that just before Henry Ford left for Washington he said to Miss Addams: "I am prepared to go the limit in backing the women in this thing." The entire $10,000 was used Monday, but the women are going ahead with preparations to send out further telegrams on the strength of Mr. Ford's pledge.

"It is the intention of the women," said Miss Grace Potter, "to have all the influential women and heads of women's organizations send their telegrams to President Wilson before Friday."

"On that day Mrs. Snowden and Miss Schimmmer will have an audience with the president. We want American women to impress upon the president how earnest they are in this matter. The two women will ask the president to urge a conference of neutral nations at Berne or The Hague. They have no idea of stopping the war. They do believe, however, that if such a conference is convened it can receive suggestions and also make them as a basis for possible peace."

"What we want is a scientific survey of all the countries actually at war made by neutral observers so that the data gained can be placed before the people of the world."

ASKS FOR PROTECTION

SAYS AMERICAN LIVES AND PROPERTY ARE IN DANGER IN MEXICO.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Following an urgent plea by Representative Mann of Illinois that steps be taken to protect American citizens and American property near Topolampco, on the west coast of Mexico, the state department requested the navy department to send a warship to that port. The navy department instructed the commander of the Pacific fleet to send one of his cruisers there. Representative Mann called at the state department several days ago in behalf of several of his constituents who own property on the west coast of Mexico. He told Secretary Lansing that Yaqui Indians were terrorizing that territory and that the lives of several Americans were endangered.

Foiled by a Widow. H. P. Cady, a chemistry professor at the University of Kansas, tells this story of a steady-looking man who stole noiselessly into a chemist's office and closed the door softly behind him. "Kin anybody hear what I say in here?" he asked anxiously. "Not a soul," the chemist assured him.

Whereupon the man produced a packet carefully wrapped, and handed it to the chemist with the query: "What is this stuff, anyway?"

After examining the contents, the chemist replied: "Why, that is iron pyrites, commonly known as fool's gold."

"What is it worth?" asked the steady fellow. "Oh, about three dollars a ton in carload lots."

"Just my pecky luck!" exclaimed the questioner. "Dern if I ain't the biggest fool in the world. I found a lot of that stuff on a widder's farm an' went an' married the widge."

The Way to Stop It.

A rich, but exceedingly mean man, residing in upper New York, who had an excellent wine cellar, but poor wine, found that in spite of its quality some one of his servants was always stealing it. He called his butler, who was in a chronic state of disgust at his employer's stinginess, and said:

"Thomas, this has got to stop! It is your business to attend to such matters. Now, what would you suggest as the most practical way to preserve this wine?"

"I don't know, sir," replied the butler, "unless you put something that's better worth drinking alongside of it."

A Grand Nation.

An old Scottish gardener was showing to a tourist the beauties of the loch and of the little village of Duddingston. It was evening, and as he expatiated on the lovely scene and on the glories of his country the moon rose over the hill. The old man stopped short in the middle of a sentence and gazed at the moon in admiration. Then he turned to the tourist and said:

"There's a moon for ye! I tell ye, mon, we're a grand nation!"

In the Wake.

Pat Maher bought a grocery store. Though he knew nothing about groceries, he would not admit his ignorance.

One morning a lady came in and asked for a package of spaghetti. Pat had never heard of it before. He looked all around, but could see nothing thus labeled.

"Spaghetti, spaghetti," he murmured, scratching his head. "Sure, an' I had it in me hand a minute ago. Would ye know it if ye saw it?"

WINTER DAIRYING.

Many Advantages in Having Dairy Cows Freshen in the Fall—Offers Best Returns to Producers.

In many sections most of the cows freshen in the spring. The more observing and careful dairymen, however, having found that winter dairying has many advantages, are breeding their cows to drop the calves in the fall. The following are some of the advantages of winter dairying:

First, higher prices are obtained for milk and cream. As the usual season for cows to freshen is the spring, milk has always been plentiful during the early summer and scarce and higher during the winter.

Second, milk and cream can be handled in cold weather with less danger of souring, so there is little loss on account of milk returned from the creamery.

Third, the amount of labor on the farm is better distributed throughout the year. If the cows freshen in the spring, they are in full flow of milk and need the best care when work in the fields is most pressing. On the other hand, if the cows calve in the fall, the farmer can give them close attention, has more time to study the problem of feeding, and can give his men employment all the year and in that way get better help.

Fourth, the lactation period is lengthened and the amount of milk given during the year increased. Cows that freshen in the spring milk heavily while grass is good, but as the pastures dry up the flow of milk falls off and with the approach of winter the cows are nearly dry. If they freshen in the fall, they should at once be started on a good winter ration, and when they have been milked six months it is time to turn them to pasture and for a time the flow of milk will be nearly as great as that from fresh cows. Recent investigations by experiment stations verify this observation.

Fifth, fall calves can be raised better than those born in the spring. Young calves should be fed on milk for several months, after which they must be weaned and fed on solid food. If they are born in the spring, they will be tormented by flies all summer, they may be neglected because of the farm work, and when it is time to wean them they must be put on a dry winter ration. Fall calves come at a time when the dairymen can give them the closest attention, and when weaned they can be put on grass at an age when an easily digested and nutritious food is most needed.

As more milk can be produced, higher prices obtained, the labor more evenly distributed throughout the year, and better calves raised, winter dairying offers the best returns to producers.
